Cadwalader's Jodi Avergun and Anne Tompkins Named to Corporate Crime Reporter's 150 Women in White Collar List

New York, NY, June 30, 2016, Cadwalader, Wickersham & Taft, LLP, a leading counselor to global financial institutions and corporations, today announced that attorneys Jodi Avergun and Anne Tompkins were named to the Corporate Crime Reporter 150 Women in White Collar list. Corporate Crime Reporter selected distinguished leading female white collar practitioners in the United States, consulting prominent attorneys in white collar defense to identify those who are highly regarded in the field.

Jodi Avergun is a partner in the firm's White Collar Defense and Investigations Group in the Washington office. Her practice focuses on representing corporations and individuals in criminal and regulatory matters involving, among other things, the FCPA, securities enforcement, health care, and general white collar matters. Prior to joining Cadwalader, Avergun spent 17 years as a federal prosecutor with the United States Attorney's Office for the Eastern District of New York and with the Criminal Division of the Department of Justice.

Anne Tompkins is a partner in the firm's White Collar Defense and Investigations Group, resident in the Charlotte, N.C., and Washington, D.C., offices. Her practice focuses on representing companies and financial institutions, as well as their officers and directors in criminal, civil, and administrative investigations. Tompkins was the United States Attorney for the Western District of North Carolina from April 2010 to March 2015.

Corporate Crime Reporter is a weekly legal newsletter that has been publishing for 30 years and is known for its featured interviews of thought leaders in the legal field. The publication's subscribers include federal and state prosecutors, major white collar and corporate crime defense law firms, trial lawyers, major corporations, law school libraries and large media outlets.
